OAK HARBOR, WASHINGTON

Presents

EVELYN M. ROEHL

GERMANIC IMMIGRATION to NORTH AMERICA in the 1800s

WIGS is pleased to present Evelyn Roehl, a professional genealogist, and owner of Kin Hunters, Seattle, Washington.

Evelyn will discuss the shifting borders of Germany, which was not officially a nation until unification in 1871. Germanic speaking people lived throughout central Europe – in areas now within the borders of Austria, Belgium, Czech Republic, France, Luxembourg, Poland, and Switzerland.

- Where did the German “element” in the U.S. come from, and where did they go?
- What were their religions, their ports of departure, and their naming patterns?
- What were their home towns in the “old country” and in the “new country”?

Evelyn’s outstanding handout includes basic German terms, unique German letters, and much more.

All are invited to join us for this free educational program.
