"I've Done the DNA Test - Now What Do I Do?"

DNA testing has become affordable for millions of people and is now an essential tool for anyone tracing their family history. Learn how to interpret your ethnicity results, sort your DNA cousins into “networks”, contact relatives, and download your raw data to transfer to other databases. Case studies will illustrate brick-wall breakthroughs, including unknown parents.

Claudia Breland has been researching since 1974, and became a professional genealogist in 2009. She has authored five books on genealogy, including transcriptions of her grandfather's diaries and a family history for a client. She has done client research worldwide, and has lectured at the local, national and international level. Claudia specializes in solving unknown parent and grandparent cases, and in finding records that are not online.

All are invited to join us for this free educational program.
